

Marty Wiggins - NCDEQ OEE

- Marty Wiggins is a native eastern North Carolinian and began his career as a high school teacher in the area before returning to graduate school to do research in sustainable community development. While in graduate school and before beginning work at N.C. DEQ, he served as an environmental educator and naturalist at Lake Crabtree County Park in Wake County. He has been with the N.C. Office of Environmental Education and Public Affairs since 2000, where he co-manages the environmental education certification program, coordinates social media and other outreach communications, and works as a liaison to environmental education centers, government agencies, universities and non-profit groups. Marty also teaches Environmental Ethics as an adjunct in the Science, Technology and Society Program at N.C. State University. He has a Bachelor of Science in Social Studies from Barton College and a Master of Arts in Liberal Studies from NCSU.